4 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
5 AT TACOMA

6 LAURA A. WESSELIUS,

7 Plaintiff,

8 v.

9 NANCY A. BERRYHILL, Acting
Commissioner of Social Security,

10 Defendant.

Case No. 2:16-cv-00171-TLF

ORDER GRANTING IN PART PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR
ATTORNEY FEES AND EXPENSES
PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 2412

11 This matter is before the Court on Plaintiff's filing of a motion for attorney fees and 12 expenses pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2412, the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA). Dkt. 32.
13 Plaintiff seeks a total of $8,479.63 in attorney for 42.4 hours of work performed by Plaintiff's
14 counsel (an amount that includes $310.00 in paralegal fees), and $6.19 in expenses. Dkts. 32-3, 15 37. The Court finds that for the reasons set forth below Plaintiff's motion should be granted, and 16 the amount of attorney fees requested should not be reduced by 20% as argued by the 17 Commissioner.

18 The plaintiff filed a motion for EAJA attorney fees and expenses after the Court reversed 19 the Commissioner's denial of her application for supplemental security income benefits and 20 remanded the matter for further administrative proceedings. Dkt. 28. In response to that motion, 21 the Commissioner argued Plaintiff's attorney fees request should be reduced by 20%, because 22 the number of hours Plaintiff's counsel expended on the Opening Brief was unreasonable. Dkt.
23 36. As explained below, the Court does not agree that a reduction in fees is warranted.

25 ORDER GRANTING IN PART PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR ATTORNEY FEES AND EXPENSES PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 2412 - 1

1 The EAJA provides:

2 Except as otherwise specifically provided by statute, a court shall award to a 3 prevailing party other than the United States fees and other expenses, in 4 addition to any costs awarded pursuant to subsection (a), incurred by that 5 party in any civil action (other than cases sounding in tort), including 6 proceedings for judicial review of agency action, brought by or against the 7 United States in any court having jurisdiction of that action, unless the court 8 finds that the position of the United States was substantially justified or that 9 special circumstances make an award unjust.

10 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A). Thus, to be eligible for attorney fees under the EAJA: (1) the 11 claimant must be a “prevailing party”; (2) the government’s position must not have been 12 “substantially justified”; and (3) no “special circumstances” exist that make an award of attorney 13 fees unjust. Comm’r, Immigration and Naturalization Serv. v. Jean, 496 U.S. 154, 158 (1990).

14 In Social Security disability cases, “[a] plaintiff who obtains a sentence four remand is 15 considered a prevailing party for purposes of attorneys’ fees.” Akopyan v. Barnhart, 296 F.3d
16 852, 854 (9th Cir. 2002) (citing Shalala v. Schaefer, 509 U.S. 292, 301-02 (1993)).¹ The plaintiff 17 is considered a prevailing party even when the case is remanded for further administrative 18 proceedings. Id. The plaintiff is a prevailing party given that as discussed above, this case was 19 remanded for further administrative proceedings. In addition, the Commissioner does not argue 20 there are any special circumstances making an award of attorney’s fees unjust. Rather, as just 21 noted, the Commissioner asserts the amount of attorney fees plaintiff has requested is 22 unreasonable.

23 ¹ Section 405(g) of Title 42 of the United States Code “authorizes district courts to review administrative decisions 24 in Social Security benefit cases.” Id., 296 F.3d at 854. Sentence four and sentence six of Section 405(g) “set forth the exclusive methods by which district courts may remand [a case] to the Commissioner.” Id. “The fourth sentence of § 405(g) authorizes a court to enter ‘a judgment affirming, modifying, or reversing the decision of the [Commissioner], with or without remanding the cause for a rehearing.’” Melkonyan v. Sullivan, 501 U.S. 89, 98 (1991); see also Akopyan, 296 F.3d at 854 (sentence four remand is “essentially a determination that the agency erred in some respect in reaching a decision to deny benefits.”).

1 Before granting attorney fees under the EAJA, the Court must determine whether those 2 fees are “reasonable.” Jean, 496 U.S. at 161; 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A). The test used to 3 determine what fees are reasonable was set forth in Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424 (1983),
4 which dealt with recovery of attorney fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988. That test “also is applicable
5 to awards of fees under the EAJA.” Sorenson v. Mink, 239 F.3d 1140, 1145 n.2 (9th Cir. 2001)
6 (citing Jean, 496 U.S. at 161 (once private litigant has met eligibility requirements for EAJA 7 fees, court’s task of determining what fee is reasonable is essentially same as that described in 8 Hensley)); see also Haworth v. State of Nevada, 56 F.3d 1048, 1051 (9th Cir. 1995) (case law 9 construing what is “reasonable” fee applies uniformly to all federal fee-shifting statutes) (quoting 10 City of Burlington v. Dague, 505 U.S. 557, 562, 112 S.Ct. 2638, 2641 (1992)).

11 In determining “the amount of a reasonable fee,” the “most useful starting point” for the 12 Court “is the number of hours reasonably expended on the litigation multiplied by a reasonable 13 hourly rate.” Hensley, 461 U.S. at 433. “The party seeking an award of fees should submit 14 evidence supporting the hours worked and rates claimed.” Id. “Where the documentation of 15 hours is inadequate,” the Court “may reduce the award accordingly.” Id. Further, the Court 16 “should exclude from this initial fee calculation hours that were not ‘reasonably expended,’” and 17 “[c]ounsel for the prevailing party should make a good faith effort to exclude from a fee request 18 hours that are excessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary.” Id. at 434.

19 The Commissioner objects to Plaintiff’s fee request and alleges that a 20% reduction in 20 the amount of attorney fees should be imposed, because Plaintiff’s attorney spent “an 21 unreasonable amount of time drafting summaries of the medical evidence and testimony 22 unrelated to any argument about alleged errors in the ALJ’s decision.” Dkt. 36, p. 2. Yet, the 23 administrative record in this case was more than 2000 pages, and the case had a rather lengthy 24

1 procedural history. In light of the effort and organizational skill required to thoroughly review
2 the record and analyze the legal issues, as well as writing a fully formed brief, the Court is 3 convinced that the number of hours spent by plaintiff's counsel was reasonable. See generally,
4 Corona v. Colvin, Case No 3:15-cv-05629 JRC, 2016 WL 7440848 at *4 (W.D. Wash. 2016)
5 (rejecting a request by the Commissioner to reduce the plaintiff's attorney fee award and noting 6 that it is not the Court's responsibility to substitute its own business acumen for that of the 7 plaintiff's attorney (as opposed to the Court's decision applying the legal standard of review
8 concerning reasonableness, which is, of course, the Court's legitimate role) and denying fees 9 under a Court-imposed theory about the best way to manage a law firm).

10 Plaintiff is correct that "[b]y and large, the [district] court should defer to the winning 11 lawyer's professional judgment as to how much time he [or she] was required to spend on the 12 case." Dkt. 37, pp. 5-6, quoting Moreno v. City of Sacramento, 534 F.3d 1106, 1112 (9th Cir.
13 2008). And as Plaintiff further notes, this Court objectively considers attorney fee applications 14 on a case-by-case basis and will not second-guess the winning attorney's appellate strategy
15 decisions. See Dkt. 37 at pp. 3-4 (citing Niemi v. Colvin, Case No. 3:15-cv-05658-KLS, 2016 16 WL 6084939 (W.D. Wash. 2016)). Here, the Commissioner has not presented sufficient reasons
17 to overcome the deference that a reviewing court should allow to an appellate lawyer's 18 reasonable judgment about how to allocate time and effort in a specific case, and the time-19 allocation decisions that are inherent when a lawyer conducts the business of law – a deference 20 approved and recognized by the Ninth Circuit's opinion in Moreno.

21 Accordingly, the Court hereby Orders as follows:

22 (1) Plaintiff is granted attorney fees in the amount of $8,479.63² and expenses in the 23

24 ² This includes an additional 1.9 hours Plaintiff's counsel spent on work related to the attorney fees motion and reply brief. See Dkt. 37, p. 6; Jean, 496 U.S. at 161-62 (stating that "absent unreasonably dilatory conduct by the

1 amount of $6.19.

- 2 (2) Subject to any offset allowed under the Treasury Offset Program, as discussed in 3 Astrue v. Ratliff, 560 U.S. 586 (2010), payment of this award shall be sent to 4 Plaintiff's attorney Eitan Kassel Yanich at his address: Law Office of Eitan
5 Kassel Yanich, PLLC, 203 Fourth Avenue E., Suite 321, Olympia, WA 98501.
- 6 (3) After the Court issues this Order, defendant will consider the matter of Plaintiff's 7 assignment of EAJA fees and expenses to Plaintiff's attorney. Pursuant to Astrue
8 v. Ratliff, the ability to honor the assignment will depend on whether the EAJA
9 fees and expenses are subject to any offset allowed under the Treasury Offset 10 Program. Defendant agrees to contact the Department of Treasury after this 11 Order is entered to determine whether the EAJA attorney fees and expenses are 12 subject to any offset. If the EAJA attorney fees and expenses are not subject to 13 any offset, those fees and expenses will be paid directly to Plaintiff's attorney, 14 either by direct deposit or by check payable to him and mailed to his address.

22 prevailing party in 'any portion' of the litigation, which would justify denying fees for that portion, a fee award
23 presumptively encompasses all aspects of the civil action," and that "the EAJA – like other fee-shifting statutes – 24 favors treating a case as an inclusive whole") (citing Sullivan v. Hudson, 490 U.S. 877, 888 (1989) (stating where administrative proceedings are "necessary to the attainment of the results Congress sought to promote by providing for fees, they should be considered part and parcel of the action for which fees may be awarded").
